

The CareQuest Institute for Oral Health conducts health improvement collaboratives, medical-dental integration initiatives and value-based care education programs designed to lead the adoption of oral health person-centered care models that include disease management, interprofessional practice and preparation for a value-based system of care. Our mission is to improve the oral health of all through a more equitable, accessible and integrated oral health care system.

The Value-Based Care (VBC) Education Program is designed to increase awareness, knowledge and skills about VBC and how it applies to oral health. Our education program covers the fundamentals of VBC and provides participants with the essential tools needed to understand and navigate the challenges of patient-centered, high-value oral health care and population health. Through presentations, case studies, meaningful discussions and interactions with experts, you will explore innovative, patient-centered strategies and value-based concepts in action.

Our team and consultants are national experts in the fields of public health and oral health, and are dedicated and talented professionals who bring knowledge from a variety of areas related to value-based payment models, oral health quality improvement and dental practice management.

Participants will learn about:

- What value-based care means relative to oral health
- Alternative payment models
- Operational efficiencies and fiscally sound practices
- Prevention-focused care and disease management strategies
- Integrated care delivery care systems
- How payment reform can advance equity in oral health
- Population health and risk stratification
- Measuring health outcomes

Who should attend:

- Senior executives of health care organizations
- Executives from health insurance companies
- State Medicaid Directors and leaders for government sectors that finance health care
- Financial executives for health care organizations
- University faculty and students
- Primary Care Associations
- Clinical leaders who oversee oral health care delivery
- Health care providers
- Administrative and support staff in health care
